United States Intercollegiate Rowing Championship Will Be Settled at Ponkeepsie Today — Washington Represents the Far West

Poughkeepsie, N. Y. June 21 .- Before the sun sinks behind the Palisades of the Hudson river this evening the intercollegiate rowing championship of the United States will have been won and lost in a series of three races in which seventeen crews are entered to compete. The national character of the intercollegiate re-gatta this year is shown by the fact that of the twelve colleges which sup port crews, six are represented on the river here today, while several of the inary contests. Against the four eastern university squads representing Columbia, Pennsylvania, Cornell and Syracuse will be pitted the University of Wisconsin from the middle west and the University of Washing-ton's Pacific coast chapion crew.

The oarsmen from Seattle have alversity of California and Leland Stanford university, while Cornell has triumphed over Harvard Columbia's varsity eight won from both Princeton and the navy in a triangular regatta on Carnegie lake May 17, leaving only Yale, which did not row a preliminary contest, unaccounted for. While none of these races were over four-mile course, the tests afforded a fair line on the respective abilities of competing crews.

The winner of the long four-mile pull from Krum Elbow to the finish line, a mile below the Poughkeepsle bridge, will be generally acclaimed, therefore, the championship eight of the year. It is this test and the hope of victory that have set the nerves of both oarsmen and spectators stingle tonight. Strange to say there is no pronounced favorite for the feature and final race of the day. All coaches concede that the average in speed and endurance, and are chary about naming winners in advance. Cornell, because of the prestige Courtney and the records of his ctews in the past, has the usual heavy folwhile Wisconsin. Columbia lowing. and Syracuse are not lacking in adherents.

Unusual interest is attached to th Washington crews which crossed the continent, after winning the Pacific coast rowing laurels, to measure blade work and stamina with the pick of the eastern college crews. Last year University of Stanford eight made the same journey. Without the servof a coach and in a borrowed shell the Californian crew finished Coach Confbear and his veteran eight from the northwest are far more optimistic. While not proclaiming themselves victors the Seattle oarsmen contend that they will up-hold the honor of the far coast crews and show that the standard of collegiate rowing is not greatly below that of the east.

In the minor events the freshman eight-oared race is expected to bring out five of the best junior crews ye seen on the Poughkeepsie course All of the colleges except Washington ar entered in this event, with Cornell the favorite because of past perform-ances. The four-oared race will, for the first time in the history of the association, be a contest between six crews, every college being represent-ed. In this race the guiding of the shell is not done by a coxswain and the ability of the bow man, who steers the shell with his feet, to keep the boat in a direct course is a most important factor in the race. The Washington four-oared crew has been working under a disadvantage from the fact that it has had no shell and used a Cornell boat during practice.

The intercollegiate regattas have been held annually on the Poughkeepsie course with one exception since 1895. The exception was the regatta of 1898, which was rowed at During this uninterrupt-Saratoga. ed series Cornell has won eleven varten freshmen contests. Pennsylvania colors have shown in front in three

New York, June 21.—Auto pole unhave to show much better against the Athletics than they have done to the date. Up to the beginning of the present series in Quakertown, the derby pools is the event of a life. New York public in July under the nuspices of the newly formed Auto Polo Association of America. It will be a very different sport from the ex-hibitions given in Madison Square garden last winter, where both arena and machines were unsuited to the same that is considered one of the most screnuous of modern times.

The field on which the stirring matches will be held is situated on Long island between Garden City and Floral Park, the playing space being 1100 feet by 800 feet, with goal posts 30, feet apart. This provides ample room for the cars to maneuver and allows the cars to travel at a speed that is impossible in such a small area as Madison Square Garden. The grounds will be fitted up with all conveniences and will have ample grandstands with an enclosure for members and their guests.

The Auto Polo association has followed the lead of foreign sportsmen in combining automobile racing and polo. Similar organizations have been formed in Great Britain, Germany, France and Italy, and all these are villed to keep the new sport free from professionalism or rather to maintain the dividing line between the two

Many prominent sportsmen have Many prominent sportsmen have become charter members of the new association under the presidency of Hicks A. Weatherbee. The vice prs-idents are Clifford B. Harmon, Jeremish Milbank and Caleb Brage. These form the board of control with the following: C. K. G. Billings, Alfred Wagstaff, Jr., E. W. C. Arnold, Rich-ard R. Sinclair, Robert J. Collier, Rodman Wanamaker, Cyril Crimmins, Jefferson de Mont Thompson, Edward P. Alker, Mortimer Delano, S. H. P. Pell, William Ziegler, Jr., Merrit Lund and Henry Woodhouse.

There are four classes of member-ship-honorary, charter, resident and non-resident. It is the idea of the contest committee to start practice games on June 2 and continue these until July 3, so that the best men may be picked to represent the association in the first big competitive match of the season, which will be on July 4. Trophies will be offered for amateurs and the professional element will be catered to with money prizes, but the latter will not be allowed to compote with amateurs. Twelve high powered cars are being built for the use of contestants. They are constructed so that in case of a collis-ion one car will not hit a single working part, frame, body or accessory of the other. The wheels, hubs, motor, radiator and other important parts are protected by steel trusses and both driver and mallet men are protected by steel bridges against the frequent somersaulting of the car in action. Rules that govern ordinary polo govern the new game, except that the referee is on the side lines.

Many noted polo players and racing drivers are members of the associa tion, and Secretary Sinclair state that the members of the visiting Eng Sinclair states lish polo team have signified their desire to play the American team a series of three games of auto polo efter the international polo games at Meadow Brook.
